SURVEY WORK HAS BEEN DISCONTINUED

ON MARYVILLE-ST. JOSEPH PRIMARY HIGHWAY

SOME FARMERS OBJECT

To Surveyors Going Through Their Fields—Work Resumed This Fall—Maintainer Works Good

The preliminary survey of the Maryville-St. Joseph primary road will be discontinued until after the farmers have harvested their crops, N. R. Sack, divisional engineer of the State Highway Department, said, this afternoon. A number of the farmers in the southern part of the County have been complaining about the surveyors going through their fields. Hence, the discontinuance of the survey.

Mr. Sack and H. M. Miller, superintendent of maintenance for this district, were in Maryville today to inspect the road maintainer being used by J. E. James, superintendent of maintenance of the state highways in Nodaway County.

The men went out on the Burlington Junction road this morning and Mr. Sack demonstrated how to use the duplex maintainer and tractor, which have just been received here. The maintainer will be used on the Burlington road entirely.

Mr. Miller said that the state road in Nodaway County are showing up well and are being kept in good shape.

When the preliminary survey of the primary road is resumed, it will take about one month to complete the work to St. Joseph, Mr. Sack said this morning.

Then the right-of-way must be secured from the farmers adjoining the road.

The State Highway Department has recently made a ruling that the counties, cities and townships must furnish the right-of-way as no state money will be spent in procuring the routes. If the farmers do not want the road, the route will be changed.

After the right-of-way for the Maryville-St. Joseph road is procured, the contract will be let immediately and work started on the road, Mr. Sack said.

There is to be a letting of contracts at Jefferson City on September 5. These contracts include work in Atchison, Holt, Worth, DeKalb and Buchanan counties. As the survey is not completed in Nodaway County, of course there is to be no lettings for work in this County.

The type of material to be used on the Maryville-St. Joseph road has not yet been determined, Mr. Sack said. However, it probably will be concrete or asphalt, as the supply of gravel is limited in this section of the state.

More equipment will be sent to Nodaway County as soon as additional money is secured by the State Highway Department.

Mr. Slack and Mr. Miller returned to St. Joseph this afternoon.

Much of the present road route to St. Joseph is being used in Nodaway County for the primary road right-of-way to St. Joseph. However, a new route is being located in Andrew County and not much of the old route is being used in that county.

Mercury Dropped to 45 This Morning

The coldest temperature this morning was 45 degrees, J. R. Brink, the Maryville weather man, said today.

But it was not the coldest August morning we have had, he added. On August 30, 1915, the mercury dropped to 39 degrees and it has been 45 degrees several times in August during previous years.

City weather forecasters predict that the cool weather will come to an end within two or three days and palm beaches will feel comfortable again.

No reason is given for the sudden drop in temperature.

TINY WEB WORMS DESTROY ALFALFA

ON FIELD BELONGING TO R. J. SAWYERS, WEST OF MARYVILLE

FIELD IS NOW BARREN

Few Days Ago, Mr. Sawyers Noticed Web Worms Feeding Upon Alfalfa and Everything Green In Field

Small web worms have destroyed the field of alfalfa, belonging to R. J. Sawyers, west of Maryville.

Last year, Mr. Sawyers had a ten-acre field of corn. The field was idle this year until the early part of June and then he plowed it in preparation for alfalfa. In the early part of August, Mr. Sawyers sowed the field in alfalfa, just before the rains. It grew to be two or three inches high and was a fine stand.

Suddenly, Mr. Sawyers noticed thousands of little green worms that began to devour the alfalfa and everything else that was green in the field.

In about two days, the field was as bare as a floor. "I think the worms were what is known as the alfalfa worms," R. A. Kinnaird, county farm agent, said this morning. "They inclose the leaves of the plants in the light silken web and then feed inside the web."

Mr. Sawyers expects to roll the field and disc it, thus killing the worms. He will re-seed with alfalfa in a few days.

YOUNG FRAIL GIRL RECEIVES BEATING

CHARGES THAT ADOPTED PARENTS WHIPPED AND BEAT HER

HAD TO DO HARD WORK

Mary Alice Whited, 13-Years-Old, Says Adopted Parents Badly Treated Her

A story of how a young frail girl about thirteen years old received a beating and ill treatment at the hands of her adopted parents, until her back and arms were black and purple was told by the girl, herself, Mary Alice White, who for the last two months has been in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Henggler, living near the Convent, near Conception, to Dr. O. L. Curl, prosecuting attorney, and Steve Roach, sheriff.

The young girl, who says her parents are separated, came to the Henggler farm from the detention home in St. Joseph. She says she was made a slave and had to do all kinds of work, such as household work, washing, milking the cows and doing chores. On Saturday evening, while taking the cows down the pasture for water, some of the animals escaped and got into the corn field. The girl says that Mrs. Henggler on discovering the cows in the corn field, blamed her and used a heavy strap in beating her over the back and arms. Later on it was said the husband also beat her.

The young girl made her escape from the Henggler home the next day and stayed out all night Sunday night and part of the day Monday in a corn field nearby. She said she nearly froze and got so hungry she went to the nearby home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weatherman, to get something to eat. It was at this place the girl told her story. However the girl returned to the Henggler home yesterday and had to do the washing.

An investigation was made by Deputy Sheriff Gabe Purcell who yesterday brought the little girl to Maryville to be kept at the home of Sheriff and Mrs. Steve Roach until it is decided what will be done in the case.

Dr. Curl was in communication with the probation officer of Buchanan County today and he is expected to come to Maryville. Dr. Curl said he would file charges against both Mr. and Mrs. Henggler.

As she might be taken back to the dention home in St. Joseph, Dr. Curl said he was wanting to make arrangements with that institution to use her as a witness when the case is called for trial.

The young girl said the Henggelers have another adopted child, Ralph Baker, about 10 years old. She said they took their spite out on her instead of the boy.

Dr. Curl and Sheriff Roach who examined the back of the young girl said there was hardly a place on her back which was not marked, showing the beating she had received.

Half Minute Interviews

The question asked today was:

"What do you think about changing the present parking ordinance, so as to require parking alongside the curb, instead of in the center of the street?"

Ed Keck, "I would favor a forty-five degree angle of curb parking over the present center parking law."

P. H. Dietz, "I consider the present center parking on Main street as dangerous. I believe a single parking in the center of the street would be the best."

Charles Gaugh "I would favor curb parking over the present system."

W. N. Deatherage, "The method of exit of the center parking is dangerous to the pedestrians and drivers therefore I would prefer parking the cars on the sides of the street. Parallel parking with the curb on narrow streets while parking at an angle could be employed on the wider streets."

S. G. Gillam, "Center parking is dangerous and side parking for that reason would be preferable."

Roy Hanna, "The present system ought to be changed to curb parking."

F. R. Marcell, "An ordinance against jay-walking would do more to prevent accidents than would car parking ordinances."

W. J. Dryer, "Curb parking is the only advisable system."

Harry Yeo—"Parking along the curb would be safer but cars should all be parked off of Main street."

L. S. Yeo—"The present parking system is as good as you can get."

J. E. Stewart—"I think parking along the curb would be a better way."

E. E. Rhodes—"I think the way they park the cars at the present time is the best system."

Martin Lewis, Jr.—"Parking 45 degree parking along the curb would be more in uniform with which other cities have in force as to parking laws."

W. J. Montgomery — "Make cars park along side the curb, although on the Court House square the cars should all be parked along the side of the street closest to the court house."

E. L. Townsend—"I would be in favor of clearing Main street of parked cars, employ side parking on the other streets."

Geo. L. Wilfley—"I am satisfied with the present center parking."

Harvey L. Haines—"By all means let's have the side parking. It is a great deal safer and will avoid many accidents. Have all cars turn around at intersections only."

Frank Schumacher—"I think the present system is dangerous but I do do not favor parking along the curb on Main street. With the present system a driver has to watch both the curb and the parked cars, so I would favor side parking on off streets."

W. A. Miller—"I am well satisfied with the present parking system."

Harve England, Chief of Police, "I favor side parking for the following reasons: 1. You gain from two to three times as much parking space by side parking. 2. You throw all of the traffic in the middle of the street and in doing this you make it visible to the traffic man who in center parking can only watch one side of the street at a time. 3. Eliminate the temporary side parking in front of stores which is the great cause of traffic congestion under the present system. 4. Eliminate the driving across parking space which is at present against the ordinance. The side parking has been tried and found successful in all large cities."

N. H. Brown "I favor side parking as this eliminates people crossing in front of cars to get to their parked cars."

L. B. Tracy, "I think the present system is preferable."

C. F. Remus, "The present system is the only satisfactory one for Maryville. Side parking would obstruct the merchants customers."

John Murrin, "The present system is as good as any."

Ed G. Orear, "The present system is all right if properly obeyed. Jay-walking and jay-driving is the big chance for accidents."

Best Mesbarger and wife of Burlington Junction were in Maryville yesterday.

FRENCH POLICY IS DEFENDED IN NOTE

SAYS DOOR IS LEFT OPEN TO ENGLISH GOVERNMENT

GERMANY MUST PAY

26 Billion Gold Marks Demanded From Teuton Govt.—Defends Occupation of Ruhr District

Paris, Aug. 22—France is standing pat upon her reparations demands, it was learned when the foreign office sent the note to London to reply to Baldwin's communication of August 12.

The French note is a fifty-page document and lays all of France's cards on the table.

For the first time, France comes out definitely and makes claim for 26 billion gold marks as her demands from Germany; France also demands sufficient Class C reparation bonds to pay any war debts claimed by the French allies.

The note pointed out that this is a concession on France's part as her portion of Class C. bonds might exceed the demands made upon her by her allies for war debts.

The note reiterated that the French will not enter into negotiations with Germany until she receeds seizures in the Ruhr and will not accept a commission of experts to determine German's ability to pay.

Paris, Aug. 22—It is impossible to evaluate Germany's further capacity to pay, as well as her present capacity, the document contends, and only works to Germany's profit in the future.

The note says that the French have not destroyed property in the Ruhr and that Germany's capacity to pay is greater than ever.

France promises modification of the Ruhr occupation policies. The French, however, reiterate their refusal to evacuate this district until Germany pays up. The note says that Germany will not annex German territory.

French newspaper express strong support of the note.

Politicians consider it the strongest note that Poincare has ever sent to England.

London, Aug. 22—English officials began today a study of the latest French note under a cloud of secrecy.

Opinions will not be made known until Baldwin and Curzon have thoroughly digested it.

While it is known that France has not backed down, many officials say that the latest French note paves a way for further communications.

France argues in justification of its reparation program. Baldwin's recent attack upon the French occupation of the Ruhr was refuted. A lengthly review of her reparation view-point, was gone into.

It is known here that the French note contains many snags and defects. It is felt that the French proposition does not allow England a sufficient sum to pay her debt to the United States. It is suggested that England pay her debt to the United States in Class C reparation bonds, but England contends that these notes are practically worthless.

Another displeasing feature of the note, it is felt here, is that France wants to draw out the negotiations.

Premier Stanley Baldwin may defer his proposed vacation trip to the continent until after the latest French note has been answered.

Recognition of Obregon Government is Near

As Soon as Hughes Submits Full Report of Conference at Mexico City, Relations May be Resumed

Washington, Aug. 22—The next step in the Mexican situation is the official announcement that the United States recognizes the Obregon government.

President Coolidge is not prepared to offer this announcement until he receives a full report of the recent conference at Mexico City of Secretary Hughes.

However, the President has been advised that there is nothing to prevent a resumption of the diplomatic relations which were broken off in May, 1920.

Administration officials are now considering a simple announcement of recognition and an appointment of a Charge de Affairs to represent the United States until Congress convenes.

According to an estimate by L. A. Johnson, chief postoffice inspector of Kansas City, the loot of the robbers was about $500, consisting mostly of postage saving stamps. They overlooked valuable mail pouches, Johnson said.

NEXT MOVE IS UP TO U. S. OFFICIALS

GOVERNMENT MUST INTERVENE TO PREVENT COAL STRIKE

FACTIONS MARKING TIME

Government Threatens To Flood Anthracite Fields With Competitive Product If Strike Is Called

Atlantic City, Aug. 22—The next move in the deadlock dispute between the operators and miners in the anthracite coal fields must come from Washington.

John L. Lewis and Samuel D. Warriner, principals in the controversy, made this statement today.

The two factions are marking time this afternoon.

"We did not break off the conference; the miners did," Warriner declared.

Up to 11:30 o'clock this morning, neither side had made application to James A. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference of the United States Coal Commission, to call the meeting together again.

"I have not heard from Washington," Gorman said.

Warriner was chiefly concerned over the threat of the government to flood the anthracite fields with a competitive product, should the strike be called September 1.

Atlantic City, Aug. 22—The door to a resumption of the conference between the operators and miners in the anthracite coal field remained open today, while John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America reiterated that all was off as a result of the breaking up of yesterday's conference.

Samuel D. Warriner, chief spokesman for the operators, in a statement declared that yesterday's break was not a reality—it was only a recess.

Yesterday's break came about when the question of wages was brought up for discussion. The miners had demanded a 20 per cent increase in contract work and a $2 a day raise in the scale paid day workers.

The operators refused to grant these demands and the conference broke up.

A strike September 1 is the only alternative, Lewis indicated and in a final statement he promised the operators "the threshing of their lives."

The re-opening of the meeting by James A. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference of the United States Coal Commission offers the only solution to the problem.

"The miners will not ask another meeting," Lewis said.

Warriner would not state what the operators would do.

Washington, Aug. 22—While the United States Coal Commission was drafting a report to let the public know who was responsible for the failure of the operators and the miners to get together, information came from the White House that the country was going to get all the coal it needed after September 1, whether or not there is a strike in the anthracite coal fields.

The government will flood the anthracite coal fields with bituminous coal, coke and other substitutes.

It is said at the White House that President Coolidge is still hopeful that John L. Lewis, representative of the miners, and Samuel D. Warriner, spokesman for the operators, would iron out their difficulties.

John Hays Hammond, chairman of the Commission, thinks that the government should not take action until after September 1. Chairman Hammond hopes that a publication of the late report with a proclamation issued by President Coolidge will bring pressure to bear so that a settlement will be reached without government interference.

"There is nothing more for us to do," Hammond declared. "If they do not do something within the next day or two, it is up to us to publish our report to the public."

The commission is determined to fix responsibility for the situation.

Miss Pauline Walker of Burlington Junction and Miss Elizabeth Beech of Rock Port are visiting Miss Lucile Gaugh.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

LIFE LENGTHENED 15 YEARS

The wonderful results of scientific discovery as applied to human longevity, are suggested in an address recently delivered by Dr. Farrand, president of Cornell university. He said that the average man has 15 years longer to live now than the man of 1870 had.

This is due to the wonderful results achieved in reducing the death rate from tuberculosis, typhoid, and the diseases of childhood. But increases in the death rate have occurred in the cases of cancer, and diseases of the heart and kidneys. This goes to show that people must take care of themselves and not depend upon scientific discovery and doctors to save them from their own mistakes. Many deaths from the three causes last named could have been postponed for many years, if people would not use up their energy at a too rapid, or dissipate it by lack of proper exercise.

FEDERAL TAXES

From the Fort Scott Tribune.

A Fort Scott school teacher whose salary was so much in excess of $1,000 last year that she had to pay $10 income tax, has received a letter from Harve Motter notifying her that because her returns were received at his office three days late she must pay $2.47 penalty, and that she had better pay it quickly on pain of a fine of $1,000.

We know Harve and know he isn't that kind of a fellow. But a number of incidents of what seem to be revenue department oppression have come under our notice recently and they indicate a system of practical graft by the government in extracting money from the public on the pretense of penalties and disallowed deductions. These come from Washington.

One Fort Scott business man who has conscientiously complied with every provision of the federal tax laws and the labyrinth of rules which the department has laid down, so far as he could possibly understand them, has been receiving almost monthly notices of penalties and increased assesments due to one thing and another, until he is wondering if it is the design of the government to literally confiscate what little he has left.

There is one outstanding impression in the public mind with respect to the present system of federal tax assessment, and that is that it is so complicated that none but expert accountants can understand how reports should be made out, and even they are a thousand miles apart on the interpretation of the law.

Certainly there is a more simple and a much less expensive way of assessing and collecting federal taxes—one that will remove from the mind of the average man the belief that Uncle Sam really has no set rules that apply to all alike, but are applied, rather, according to the caprice of the particular clerk or depty to whose desk his returns happen to fall.

The automobile is a great institution and has come to stay but the incomes of a lot of people are going while they are staying.

Former Secretary of Agriculture Meredith will attempt to make Senator Brookhart of Iowa look like thirty cents in the libel suit he has filed against the fiery senator.

The Randolph county court is not much in favor of carnival companies and believes the sentiment of the people are against them, so they have decided to make the license fee for carnivals $500 and think this will keep them out of the county. Tent shows will be taxed five dollars a day.

Should a spoon ever be used for fairway drives that might be handled with a brassie?

Answered by BOB MacDONALD

Veteran tournament player, winner of the Metropolitan open championship, 1921, and the Texas open championship, 1922. Famous the world over for long distance driving.

It is my opinion that the majority of average players should use a spoon instead of a brassie for most fairway drives. The spoon gives almost as much distance. It is used with more confidence because it gives the ball more loft. 150 yards with a spoon is better than a dub with a brassie. Considering that the average player will dub more shots with a brassie, I think he will come out better in the long run by using the spoon for most fairway driving.

"We Want Your Business"

Better than Riches

UNDER the dome of the Board of Trade in Manchester, England, this inscription: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The thought is considerably more than mere sentiment. It is good business.

A good name is recognized as the biggest individual asset a business can have. It is the very keystone of modern industry. Business today is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and every manufacturer has such a long list of customers—that it would not do to have a reputation for "slipping something over."

Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You don't have to bargain and dicker and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read the advertisements and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness or of its definite value. The advertiser would not dare to risk his good name by advertising an unworthy product.

If you count constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time—read the advertisements and buy advertised merchandise.

PLANTS THAT HAVE "SIGHT"

Either That Sense or Instinct Which Would Seem to Answer the Same Purpose.

We know that plants are sensitive to light and darkness. Many of them move during the day to turn the faces of their flowers always to the sun. Others open only when the daylight is dying, and when the moths on whom they rely to carry their pollen are abroad.

Climbing plants, such as sweet peas, seem to fling their tendrils in an almost uncanny way in the direction of anything that will serve as a support.

A scientist engaged recently in taking photographs of leaves through the microscope was surprised to discover that some of them showed hundreds of little round patches, each of which reflected the image of some object, just as do the facets of the compound eye of an insect. Closer examination proved that each of these patches consisted of a cell whose rounded outer wall formed a perfect lens.

Each cell was, in fact, a perfect eye. It was tempting to jump to the conclusion that plants could see. Actually they do not. The "eyes" serve quite a different purpose. A plant lives by the process of bottling up sunshine, whose action produces chemical changes within the leaves and the stem. The leaves focus the sun's rays and enable the work to be done effectively.

Plants are sensitive to light simply because when the sun shines the chemical changes within them go on with increased speed. Climbing plants find supports by groping. The tendrils follow the sun, and as they move round they touch and hold on to anything suitable that lies in their path.

LONDON THIEF USES CANDLE

Burglar Always Carries Stump and Matches in Cigar Box and Leaves Them.

There is an old-fashioned burglar in London who has mystified New Scotland Yard detectives for a long time, the Cincinnati Enquirer says.

At every home he breaks into he leaves a cigar box. About two dozen cigar boxes have been collected by the police and deposited at various stations in the north and northwest suburbs.

The cigar box is used as a candlestick. He puts the stump of a candle and some matches in the box, and when, in the early hours of the morning, he forces the catch of a window and enters a house he lights the candle and quietly makes a search for jewelry.

Having filled his pockets with all the valuables he can find he leaves the cigar box with the candle and the matches on a chair or table and goes home.

Nobody has yet been able to find out anything more about this mysterious burglar. The police think (without prejudice) that he is an old man, who, after leading an honest life for some years, has returned to the evil habits of his youth. They base this theory on the supposition that if he were a young man he would despise such an antiquated thing as a candle and carry an electric torch, but, being old, he cannot bring himself in line with the ideas of the modern burglar.

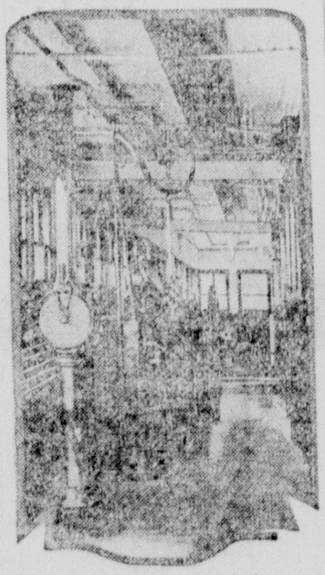
AUTOMATIC HELMSMAN



With no one at the wheel, the steamship Harry Luckenback entered the Boston harbor after a 12,000-mile trip to the Pacific coast and return. The vessel, commanded by Capt. This ingenious device keeps the ship headed straight ahead; the device is somewhat of a gyroscope and electric automatic compass.

Late Telegraph News

Jefferson City, Aug. 22—Governor Arthur M. Hyde has issued a proclamation designating Sept. 17 as "Constitution Day," that being the 139th anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States.

In the proclamation, the governor requests all patriotic societies and all good citizens of the state of Missouri to give thought to the fundamental principles of the constitution and by public meetings and programs to disseminate knowledge of it.

Governor Hyde stated that the representative government founded upon the document has proved to be the most perfect balance between the extreme of Democracy upon the one side and the tyranny of autocracy on the other," and stands today the mightiest example of liberty and justice in all the world."

Preston, Kas., Aug. 22—A sheriff's sale of 63 head of registered Ayreshire cattle, 105 registered Berkshire hogs and ten registered Percheron horses was held on the estate of H. W. Gossard, famous Chicago corset manufacturer, recently to satisfy court judgments.

Gossard had established a model stock farm to show Kansas farmers how to make money. He took up the land which his father homesteaded in Stafford county fifty years ago, his boyhood home, and turned it into a modern breeding estate. Gossard owned others like it in Colorado and Indiana.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 22—A fish story is a "fish story" no matter who tells it, but J. S. Askew, state game and fish warden, should be authority.

Lying deep in the riffles of the Washita river, just below Sulphur, is a 200-pound blue cat, just waiting to be captured, Askew says, and he has been expecting daily to hear that this huge fish has been landed.

Two weeks ago, several men who live at Davis were "bank fishing" when they captured one weighing eighty-five pounds. One of them got a rope through the gills of the big prize but he promptly took "three men to the sea" without a boat.

Now a special gig is being rigged up, with a rope and windlass and if this catfish isn't captured, it will be because he is so big he swallows, gig, rope, windlass and all.

Claim Frenchman First in America

Jean Cousin Saw Continent Before Columbus, Says Corsican Review

Paris, Aug. 22—Four years before Christopher Columbus planted the Spanish flag in the sandy soil of the Island of San Salvador and proclaimed the "new land" to be the domain of Queen Isabella, the mainland of America had already been discovered by Jean Cousin, a French sailor.

That is the contention of the Corsican Review, a French publication printed in the interests of the Island of Corsica.

Setting out from Dieppe in the Spring of 1488 in a small sailing vessel manned by a select crew, the French mariner was carried by the Gulf Stream to the coast of what is now Brazil, near the mouth of the Amazon.

Cousin, however, lacked the foresight and initiative to make capital of his exploit. His own account of the voyage ,deposited in the naval archives in the City of Dieppe, was lost in 1604 when the English bombarded and almost entirely destroyed the city.

Cousin's first mate on the voyage was Vincent Pinzon, a Spaniard, who with two brothers, later joined Columbus' crew.

Voisin de la Popeliniere in a "History of the World," written in 1582, credited Cousin with the discovery of the new continent. Other French history writers give the credit to Columbus.

State Bureau Has 78 Children to Place

Jefferson City, Aug 22—Have you a home to offer to one of the homeless children under the care of the Children's Bureau of the State Board of Charities?

The Children's Bureau of the State Board of Charities has seventy-eight children under its care to be placed in family homes.

It is the plan of the board to have these children placed in good homes where they will have the affection, care and training they should have, and a chance to lead useful, happy lives.

The Children's bureau now has forty-nine boys and twenty-nine girls to be placel in homes. They are of all ages; and there are many little brothers and sisters. Often it is unnecessary to have these little families separated, as people sometimes will take more than one child.

If the men and women of Missouri could use these fine boys at the State Children's Home at Carrollton and the little girls, who so often ask the children's agents so anxiously if they have found a home for them yet, they would open their homes to them, and be glad to have a part in giving these children a good home and a chance in life.

The Children's Bureau asks all people who are interested in giving these children a good home to write to them.

Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, Director Children's Bureau, State Board of Charities, Jefferson City, Missouri.

Redistricting Agreement Near

Constitutional Convention Adopts Proposal To Give Task To Executives

Jefferson City, Aug. 22—A solution of the problem of redistricting the senatorial district virtually was reached yesterday by the constitutional convention when the body, by a vote of 55 to 17, adopted a proposal directing the five executive officers of the state to rearrange the senatorial districts in 1925.

While the agreement was not adopted as the report of the committee on redistricting, it is believed this action will be taken tomorrow.

The proposal was offered by Frank H. Farris of Rolla, Democrat, and was adopted in lieu of the minority report of the committee.

The Farris substitute was offered after a proposal by former Judge George H. Williams of St. Louis, providing that the power of redistricting be delegated to the house of representatives, had been rejected by a vote of 36 to 38.

Under the Farris proposal, the senatorial districts would be rearranged by the governor, attorney general, secretary of state, state auditor and state treasurer in 1925. It provides that the work be done by officers chosen in the 1924 election, and that the new districts be perfected six months after they assume office.

Joshua W. Alexander of Gallatin offered a proposal providing that redistricting be left to the governor, secretary of state and attorney general.

The Farris proposal was adopted without regard to party lines. Six Republicans and eleven Democrats voted against it.

Those voting against it were Allison, Bothwell, Carter, Conwell, Crossley, Dumm, Fremon, Harrison, Haynes, Hunter of Cape Girardeau, Lucas, McKinley, Robinson, Sasse, Tubbs, Vernon and Wilson.

RETRACES DARWIN'S STEPS; FINDS NEW SPECIMENS

By Kenneth Harris
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Aug. 22—A number of scientific discoveries were made by Dr. Wilfred H. Osgood, chief curator of zoology of the Field Museum of Natural History, when he journeyed through the southern half of South America recently.

The curator traversed practically the same territory which Darwin traveled over almost a century ago, and he is the first man to obtain duplicate specimens of the animals which the Victorian scientist took to Great Britain on his return.

More than 2,000 specimens were obtained by the field expedition, according to Dr. Osgood. He said that one of the important finds is the tiny marsupial, which is an entirely new genus of the mammal family. It has not yet received a scientific name.

The expedition, which Dr. Osgood accompanied, spent most of its time on Chiloe Island, off the coast of Chile.

"The northern half of this island is densely populated and civilized," Dr. Osgood explained, "while the southern half is uninhabited."

The doctor exhibited a number of skins and stuffed specimens which he brought back with him. Among them was the pelt of a Brazilian red wolf and five armadillos, which he trapped. A tiny Darwinian toad which he had kept was found to be carrying a number of its young in its mouth, the regular hiding place in time of danger.

The doctor was asked about the people he and his party came in contact with while on their recent tour.

"They are interested in our prohibition law," said the doctor. "The natives are rather heavy drinkers, and the first question they pop at an American is, 'Ley seca?' or translated 'What about prohibition?'

"And the woman—they were so capable. We employed them regularly to row our boats for us when the wind failed. We found them very good 'seamen.'

"We did not encounter any cannibals. The human flesh eater no longer exists in the country through which we traveled. Quite frequently we met Indians in the towns who treated us with utmost respect and courtesy, but if we had ventured on their territory we would have been shot and killed. Such is the fate of all Caucasians who trespass upon their ground."
